1. US Professional Development: In 2021 we ran a final virtual series of the "Math4Antiracism Live" initiative with five prominent educators who shared their views online and answered audience questions. This series saw the completion of the virtual certification, in partnership with Participate, focused on mathematics and social justice, for US teachers. We worked with our Education Advisory Board to approve the course including the selected recorded material and assessment criteria for US educators to earn a digital badge. In 2022 we will push the teacher-recruitment drive to bring more teachers into the online learning community. We were also able to run in person coaching sessions with a small group of teachers in North Carolina focused on global math education. Our Global Math Stories website with free resources continued to provide support for educators with 24,655 unique pageviews in 2021.

Through our support teachers were able to explore the ways in which they can empower themselves and their students as critical thinkers. We have managed to grow our reach and found creative ways to work with new audiences and locations. In 2021, through our virtual programs and our existing education resources, we provided 220 hours of virtual support to 1581 teachers. Our virtual conferences and bespoke programs also provided local leadership opportunities for teachers to design and facilitate workshops for their peers.
